This is a step by step tutorial on how to install Windows 7 in a VirtualBox using Windows 7 as a host operating system. Firstly it will take you about 10-15 minutes to install Windows 7 on a VirtualBox virtual machine. We will then create an image of this virtual machine and share this image with you. Then we will use your image, in conjunction with the Android ADB installer and the Android SDK. This will allow you to deploy your virtual machine on your Android device or computer and run your Android applications from within your OS instead of having to use an emulator. If you want to deploy your android applications onto Android devices, then we can recommend the Android Device Transfer App. We can also recommend the VirtualBox Remote App. If you want to use a different operating system for your virtual machine, then you should check out our other posts, which also have useful tutorials.
