(CNN) -- A U.S. aircraft carrier's been delayed more than five years because of efforts by the Afghan government to find a safer way to move its cargo. The USS Harry S. Truman was supposed to be "in at least rough commissioning by Christmas 2009," said Lt. Cmdr. Ron Flanders, a spokesman for the aircraft carrier. But the U.S. Navy had to put the ship on hold because "due to security and transportation issues, the

The missiles, made by Raytheon Co. of Massachusetts, are capable of hitting targets up to 150 miles away, according to the paper. The Pentagon said the missiles were initially used in ground attack missions to shoot down unmanned aerial vehicles in Afghanistan. "We are working with Raytheon to incorporate these capabilities to our current missile portfolio to defend against UAV threats," Air Force spokesman Lt. Col. Patrick Slattery told the paper. The Pentagon has said it has seen a steady increase in the number of unmanned aerial vehicles, which is also called UAVs, the paper reported.Q: Normalizr - how to use properties setter to set the value of a object I'm using the following libraries for a project and the normalizr module is a bit troubling me, but I'm sure it's something simple... normalizr is used as follows: import { datastore } from 'normalizr'; @Component({ selector: 'app-home-page', templateUrl: './home.page.html', styleUrls: ['./home.page.scss'], providers: [datastore()] }) export class HomePage implements OnInit { // items is the data object which is returned as a result of the normalizr() items = datastore().mapping(); constructor(private _datastore: DatastoreService) {} ngOnInit() { } } I use the normalizr module because of a data structure. items = [{ name: 'item1', types: ['product','service'], dept: 'dep1' }, { name: 'item2', types: ['product','service'], dept: 'dep2' }, { name: 'item3', types: ['product','service'], dept: 'dep1' }] The types are known as strings, but the dept field is a number 2d92ce491b
