Image Technical Services, Inc* Eastman Kodak Company v. Image Technical Services, Inc, 504 U.S. 451 (1992), was a United States Supreme Court case decided in 1992 that ruled that a copyright holder of a photograph owns the copyright of the photograph, except for the collection of the work, in which a copyright holder has the right to protect the fixed form of the work. The case held that the person who made the photograph, the service that created the photograph, or the business that sold the photograph did not own the rights to the photograph unless the copyright holder assigned the rights. The statute of limitations does not apply to these creations for copyright.
