When I execute a query in Sql Management Studio, I get the following error when I have some parameters in the query: An unhandled exception of type 'System.Data.SqlClient.SqlException' occurred in System.Data.dll Additional information: Incorrect syntax near '@'. I believe that the syntax error is due to the parameters being surrounded by double quotes, but I want to avoid this. I can pass the parameters in without the quotes and it works fine - so that is the safest bet. I tried the following: SqlCommand command = conn.CreateCommand(); command.CommandText = "select * from tblEmployees where empID = @EmpID and empName = @EmpName"; command.Parameters.AddWithValue("@EmpID", empID); command.Parameters.AddWithValue("@EmpName", empName); But that didn't work either. Any ideas? A: command.CommandText = "select * from tblEmployees where empID = @EmpID and empName = @EmpName"; You should use command.CommandText.Replace("@", "") More in this answer [Update] Note that you have another error in your code, an extra " at the end of the where clause, meaning that it should be command.CommandText 3e33713323
