Viewing banned players or IP addresses. Listing all bans. Old school, hardcore, raw, and simply, me. Ok, I've removed my family members from minecraft, but I still have one his friends name on my account. I will be updating his. Ill ban him if you would all help me as he has been pesting us. But he uses my game account. When I denied his access to my account on his request, he still went to my minecraft server to use my account. Im truly sorry that I didnt make it clear to him that he couldnt use my account. I know it is not easy to know your account is being used by another player. Any help would be appreciated. A: There is no such thing as a "universal Minecraft Unban" that I have found so far, hence it is impossible for you to use. However, there are several ways in which you can prevent people from logging into your server: Register some accounts with your server (personally, I don't know of any single server that would even allow accounts from multiple worlds). Use security questions and disable password recovery. Make sure your server is password protected. As seen here, there is a way for players to hack into each other's accounts through the use of third-party sites such as IPLGuardian or MobaTracker. A: There is no universal method but there are several ways to prevent a player from accessing another player's minecraft server. Register accounts. Password protect server. Disable account recovery.
