I am not sure whether this is the 'right' place to post this, but I wanted to share this. 853 N.E.2d 965 (2006) Nancy KOLSTEAD, Appellant-Defendant, v. STATE of Indiana, Appellee-Plaintiff. No. 57A05-0508-CR-397. Court of Appeals of Indiana. October 30, 2006. *966 Andrew M. Kent, Kent Law Firm, Indianapolis, IN, Attorney for Appellant. Steve Carter, Attorney General of Indiana, Office of the Attorney General Indianapolis, IN, Attorneys for Appellee. OPINION KIRSCH, Judge. Following a jury trial, Nancy Kolstead was convicted of two counts of dealing in methamphetamine, as a Class B felony. The trial court sentenced Kolstead to eight years on each count, with four years suspended to probation, but imposed the sentences to run concurrently. Kolstead now appeals her convictions and the nature of the sentences, alleging that the trial court abused its discretion when it ordered her to pay $200 in court costs, and when it ordered her to pay a fine. We affirm in part, reverse in part, and remand with instructions. FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY On July 16, 2004, the State charged Kolstead with four counts of dealing in methamphetamine, as Class B felonies, and one count of possession of methamphetamine, as a Class D felony. In a separate case, Kolstead's boyfriend, Mark Henderson, was charged with dealing in methamphetamine. On October 4, 2005, the State filed a motion to consolidate the two cases. On October 14, 2005, the trial court entered an order granting the motion. At a pretrial conference held on October 25, 2005, the State advised the trial court that Kolstead and Henderson would "plead guilty pursuant to" the plea agreement offered to them. (App.12). The trial court ordered Kolstead and Henderson to appear for sentencing, and on November 2, 2005, the trial court sentenced each of them to five years on each count of dealing in methamphetamine, with two years suspended. The trial court also sentenced Kolstead to one year in the Vanderburgh County Jail on the possession of methamphetamine charge, and the State dismissed the remaining charges. The trial court subsequently granted the State's motion to reconsider sentence, and on December 1, e24f408de9
