THTMLPopup is a set of classes that allow you to create an HTML popup and use them in your applications. The component helps you easily create such pop-ups for your applications. The component is designed for Delphi and C++Builder. You can use this component either directly inside your application or from a webpage, depending on the features you want to use. In the latter case, you can even have this component hosted in an outside server and retrieve the HTML code automatically. THTMLPopup Components: The popup that it displays is created as a separate HTML file and includes useful code. It allows you to use many HTML tags such as form fields, tables, data grids, and even anchors. These tags can be combined to display your messages in many different ways. You can fully customize the message displayed, including the font size, borders, and color. The component can be used as a popup, modal (that is, the form of the application remains visible while the popup is active), and as an extension popup (that is, the form of the application disappears while the popup is active). It can also be used as a message center (that is, a popup is displayed at the bottom of the screen and used to display important information). Using the component is extremely easy because it allows you to define its properties and display it using the built-in controls. You can find the way to display the popup as a modal or
