GameDownload PUBG MOBILE 100103 1.0.5727.123.ex.The present invention relates to a metal material for a valve component applied to a fluid control device, which can be applied to a butterfly valve, a globe valve or a check valve, for example. Conventionally, for use as a metal material for a valve component, for example a valve seat, a metal material in which an alloy containing aluminum is employed as the main component is employed. As such a metal material, there is known a metal material in which a steel containing a titanium carbide formed through carbothermal reduction is employed as the main component. Furthermore, there is disclosed a metal material having a zirconium content higher than a certain level in a zirconium, titanium carbide containing steel, in which micro cracks caused by the zirconium content are suppressed (see Japanese Patent Laid-Open Publication No. HEI 10-317024). However, the alloy containing aluminum which is employed as a material for the valve seat is not necessarily satisfactory in wear resistance and corrosion resistance. On the other hand, for the valve seat used as the metal material described above, the titanium carbide containing steel is provided with an excellent wear resistance and corrosion resistance. However, the titanium carbide contains a large amount of titanium carbide with a large radius of crystallization. As a result, a problem arises in that the heat resistance is low. Furthermore, there is disclosed an alloy having a content of titanium carbide of 10 to 60%, a content of a tungsten carbide of 10 to 25% and a content of carbon of 10 to 25%, in which the ratio of the above titanium carbide to the tungsten carbide is 2 or less (see Japanese Patent Laid-Open Publication No. HEI 10-291573). However, the alloy described above is insufficient in the wear resistance and the corrosion resistance. It is an object of the present invention to provide a metal material which is suitable for a valve component employed in a fluid control device, in which the wear resistance and the corrosion resistance are excellent, the heat resistance is high, and the material cost is low. 570a42141b
