* Expands the text of the pages of applications opened using either Microsoft® Windows Explorer or Microsoft® Internet Explorer as well as the text of Office documents. * Reads the text aloud when pointing at any text on the screen. * Allows you to turn off or on the text-to-speech functionality at any time. * Ability to turn the zoom level on and off. * Use the magnifier tool from the taskbar or mouse to screen sections around the cursor. * Easy to use: 1 button to begin reading and 1 to exit. * Expands the text of documents using Microsoft Office versions: Word, Excel, PowerPoint. * Exports text from websites such as Amazon, CNN, eBay, GameStop, The New York Times, Wikipedia, and eBay. * Microsoft XPS format import/export. * One client for Windows, Mac, and Linux. * Experience has shown that the speech is more user friendly at smaller screen resolutions. Get a list of your top-visited sites, and bring up the links associated with them. Automatically add links to your clipboard! The program will periodically check to see if the selected website was recently updated. * By default it will display the top ten. * You can configure the time interval (in seconds) between checks. * You can also have it only display links to pages that have been updated recently. * You can also tell it to only check the http or https type. * If your bookmarks are stored in a local file, make sure the directories and files are closed when you install/remove it from your computer (the files are not deleted, they are still there but you can't open them). * The program will automatically detect which type of file is used to store your bookmarks. * The program will try to set the bookmarks to the first date and time that they were last accessed (hence the reason for the automatic check). VOVSOFT - Screen Reader - Speak text appearing on computer screen. What VOVSOFT - Screen Reader does is precisely what it says on the box; speaks the text appearing on your screen. While not a magnifier, it is still very useful for people with serious visual impairments who have a small screen. And unlike a magnifier, this application features voice control, enabling you to interact with the screen content without changing focus. You can even suspend or pause the speech engine when you do not want to hear it. VOVSOFT - Screen Reader uses the mouse to activate the speech engine as it follows your cursor. Clicking anywhere on the screen will cause the text to be spoken out loud, so you will not have to continuously adjust your focus to read the text. What's New In?

VOVSOFT - Screen Reader is a text-to-speech application with zoom capabilities specifically designed to make it easier for such users to interact with Windows applications. Both portable and installer editions available VOVSOFT - Screen Reader actually follows the mouse cursor and reads the text under it out loud. Thus, when interacting with any opened window or applications, other senses can be used to click wherever needed. The application comes in two flavors: an installer-based one and a portable one. While identical in terms of functionality, the latter does not leave traces in the system's registry and allows you to run it on the go, directly from a removable USB drive, for instance. To put it another way, you can take VOVSOFT - Screen Reader with you wherever you go and run it on any computer to benefit from the same features regardless of the computer you want to use. Magnify a screen section around the cursor Considering its purpose, it is only normal for the developers of VOVSOFT - Screen Reader to have created an application that focuses on simplicity. Its main window allows you to select the speech engine from the list of available voices installed in Windows. Additionally, you can adjust the speech speed using the dedicated slider. The lower part of the window allows you to configure the zoom functionality of the application. VOVSOFT - Screen Reader features zoom levels from 2x to 8x, displaying the zoomed section around the mouse cursor. Both the zoom feature and the read aloud function can be disabled or re-enabled whenever you want. Zoom and read aloud functions in a single app There is no doubt that a desktop magnifier and a text-to-speech tool can be of help for blind or visually impaired people. VOVSOFT - Screen Reader brings them together into a single application that is both simple and easy to use.
