I'm using a SQL Select command. I just need to display a list of questions and some results. I got this working in C#, but not in VBA. The code below returns a Run-time error '3061' which I don't know if it's due to the connection string, but I've had a similar issue with it before. I've tried numerous ways to add my connection string to the VBA code below: Sub ExportTest() Dim strConnection As String Dim objConn As ADODB.Connection Dim strSQL As String Dim objRS As ADODB.Recordset strConnection = "Provider=SQLOLEDB; Data Source=MYDATA; Persist Security Info=False;" Set objConn = New ADODB.Connection objConn.Open strConnection strSQL = "SELECT QuestionID, Question1, Answer1, Question2, Answer2, Question3, Answer3 FROM Questions" Set objRS = objConn.Execute(strSQL) For Each row In objRS 54b84cb42d
