Title: iDeer Blu-ray Player Author: IDeer.Com Size: 6.07MB Region: All Language: English Reviewer: Frank Other Notes: Released: 29/01/2013

Description: iDeer Blu-ray Player comes across as a full-featured multimedia player with embedded support for Blu-Ray files, providing a complete media experience for a wide range of audiences. As Blu-ray discs became the choice of more and more users, the need for media players that could rise up to the challenge of playing this type of content increased, the result being a dedicated software market which does not fail to comply with user requests. iDeer Blu-ray Player is another successful attempt that emerged not long ago, from the desire of delivering an environment that's comfortable and easy to control, aimed at beginner and professional users alike. As opposed to software that supports only the Blu-Ray format, iDeer Blu-ray Player brings a platform capable of playing several other formats, both video and audio, which we cannot indulge ourselves into enumerating on account of the list is too long. Equipped with the means of removing various Blu-Ray protection standards, the player allows users to enjoy media content regardless of the region they're in, which is made possible via various codecs embedded inside it. The playback process can be controlled to the finest details, with options for synchronizing audio tracks and subtitles, as well as for disabling audio channels and video tracks. With various scenarios for tweaking the aspect ratio, iDeer Blu-ray Player includes various deinterlace techniques such as Blend, Mean, Yadif, Linear and Phosphor to name the most important ones. Another benefit of the player is the AirX function that allows you to make the videos accessible to a wide array of smart devices, such as iPhone and iPads with the aid of a Wi-Fi connection. On an ending note, iDeer Blu-ray Player is able to satisfy even the pickiest of users through ease of use, the rich support for media formats, as well as through a smooth playback process that can be controlled easily.

Q: How do I get an offset function to work on the selected text in a "select" element? I'm a newbie, and I'm trying to work with WebGL.
