The.mat files (which is what you're looking for) can be found in the datasets folder, which can be downloaded from: After you've downloaded the dataset make sure that it is installed. To install the data you'll go to preferences -> datasets and choose the dataset you want to use. Once the dataset is installed you need to copy the data into your matlab work directory. If the data is spread across a few different files, simply use the text to data tool. Hope this helps! Q: How to draw three.js plane from array? I have simple three.js scene (code below) on the top of the page and I need to display several plane and cylinders in three.js. I found three.js examples that use a json, but I have a set of coordinates of plane to draw. How can I achieve the same result like in this code: function initPlane(){ camera = new THREE.PerspectiveCamera(70,canvas.width/canvas.height,0.1,1000); camera.position.z = 2000; scene = new THREE.Scene(); scene.background = new THREE.Color( 82138339de
