term strategies. The application comes with various graphical representations that allow users to easily understand the company's KPI trends. BSC Designer Light is a flexible balanced scorecards creator that can assist managers in drafting comprehensive company mid term strategies. The application comes with various graphical representations that allow users to easily understand the company's KPI trends. Valuable for company managers and entrepreneurs The software is useful for company managers and other similar staff members in a position to decide the future strategy of the firm. It can also be a valuable assessment tool, as it allows one to set objectives and accurately track the progress made towards the goals set out. BSC Designer Light features a somewhat complex interface, with plenty of menu items and on-screen buttons. There are multiple frames in the main window that store specific information. New users who find the software overwhelming can remove some toolbars and columns via the "View" menu. The utility has a wide array of possible applications As a standard analysis tool, the program requires input data. This depends on the company profile and size, but users are free to create projects for a wide array of domains and applications. For example, one can track the three pillar structure of a sustainability policy, or generate a multi-tiered HR KPI scorecard. The program allows grouping up key performance indicators into categories and each item can be customized with regards to value, but also the measuring unit used. Once valid indicators have been defined, the program automatically builds several performance charts. Generates crisp diagrams These can range from radar, time and optimization charts to gauge and bar diagrams. This is one of the strong points of this program, as it allows wide dissemination of otherwise technical data.

All charts can be exported to common image formats, such as PNG, JPG and BMP. All things considered, BSC Designer Light is a simple KPI analyzer that can display intuitive and informative graphs based on user-defined data. BSC Designer Light...Former Rep.
