Direito Processual Civil Esquematizado (Em Portugal do Brasil) on Amazon.n000 pages, excluding Daniel Neves' manual). The latter contains, firstly, an article by the founder of the Cultural

League of Portugal, written in response to a declared war or the country's withdrawal from the European Union, and secondly, an article by Agostinho Neto, in which Neto predicts the imminent start of a civil war in the country. In this article, JosÃ© Pereira denies legitimacy to Neto, because the latter was a military dictator before the start of the revolution, although even after the start of the revolution he retained power, and then was overthrown. I translated this article and sent it to the Portuguese branch of the Social Security Association. It soon became known that there was no representative of the Association of Social Protection in Portugal in touch with us, and this organization until the death of its chief specialized in working with women, and, accordingly, if possible, refused to cooperate with political opponents of Our Party. After the fall of the François Hollande regime in November 2015 and my departure to London, where he funded the Institute of Human Rights, I began to write a detailed article on Portugal in the Political Action Committee of the party in January 2016. It came out after my trip to London. I also met with some other Portuguese activists and politicians and throughout 2016, together with the party, participated in the work of the Human Rights Institute. But it was only in the summer of 2017, even before the start of the elections to the European Parliament, that I learned that in Portugal this year the Minister for Refugees was replaced. It became obvious to me that the government of the country is practically not controlled by the parliaments and is deliberately fomenting a civil war in the country, and the government cannot afford this because of its financial difficulties. And I continued to help the work of the Institute and the drafting of articles for the human rights organization by the Green Chela (Anguila El Ango). After the victory of Pedro Passos in the elections in March 2016, just during these trips of mine, I wrote an article "The Tragedy of Portugal", prepared for political reasons. It was released in English in September and has since been reprinted and translated into other languages â€‹â€‹several times. At the same time, I wrote a series of articles on the topic of the migration crisis, which I would like to publish as a separate collection. All these materials are still stored in my memory as texts that had a great influence on the future of the country. I have now received a letter from the Cuba Foundation asking me to write the article
