The Process Of Analysis First we need to generate a spreadsheet with an autocorrelation analysis in it, as well as some error. The simplest way to think about it is that you can think of the autocorrelation as the measure of how similar you values in the spreadsheet are to their own past value. This means that the autocorrelation of a spreadsheet value with itself is going to be 1, because generally when you calculate a value in a spreadsheet you are also going to use that very same value as the input of the function. So you can see that we are looking at the 09e8f5149f
