What's New In?

AnyToAny is a software designed for graphic conversion. It converts from any file format into any other file format. For ease of extensibility each file format has its own plugin. Well, it is definitely not any kind of tool that converts between image formats. That is a very different task and it requires a different tool. Please ask in Forum, we will do best to answer you.Q: How to use CommandHandler inside a plugin Im trying to use a plugin in my script. The plugin is in charge of save a record in a dbo.SpecialOffer table. $item = Mage::getModel('catalog/product')->load($product->getId()); $product->addOfferBefore($item); $product->save(); How can I use CommandHandler for this? I tried to use a plugin on a custom event and its not working. I was able to use the event "sales_order_place_after". $event = $observer->getEvent(); $product = $event->getProduct(); $item = $product->getItem(); $product->addOfferBefore($item); $product->save(); When I do it this way its not even calling the save() function. The reason why I am trying to add this is because the plugin will be used on the customer registration. A: Not every event has a Command Handler. So first you need to determine if this is an event that the Command Handler is being used on. `$event = $observer->getEvent(); foreach ($event->getCommandHandlers() as $commandHandler) { if ($commandHandler->isHandled($event)) { // Handle the event. } }` If you know that this event will only be used in a specific module, I think you should use the event system to determine which module is handling the event, and pass the product or item object into the module's dispatch method to get the appropriate product or item. Event Object Reference A new poll has found that a majority of Democrats believe that federal student loans are fair, compared to just 7 percent of Republicans, who believe the same. The annual Consumer Financial Protection Bureau survey, conducted in early August, found that only 11 percent of Republicans believed that federal student loan programs were fair, compared to 55 percent of Democrats. It also found that a significant number of Americans do not believe they have
