What is Need for Speed Rivals? Need for Speed Rivals is the second of two plannedÂ. After a rocky game development process - mainly in part due to the fact that they were busy with the PlayStation .The world is currently in the middle of a climate crisis that threatens to exacerbate the impact of the Covid-19 pandemic. To help slow the spread of the disease, Washington, DC and Chicago have made restrictions on large public gatherings and movement in and around cities. In NYC, New York Police Commissioner Dermot F. Shea called for a "safer at home" order. Yet, it is a person's constitutional right to assemble to express grievances. Throughout the nation, New York, and in fact the entire nation, is being policed on a variety of levels by these health and safety officials. In New York, these powers are being exercised from above — mostly from the Mayor's office and the New York City Police Department (NYPD). The excesses of the Trump administration and other state and local governments have been made all the more brazen because of the coronavirus pandemic. On March 9, In their COVID-19 Emergency Declaration, Mayor Bill de Blasio stated: "New Yorkers and their visitors have a fundamental constitutional right to assemble and gather to exercise their rights, and there should be no restrictions on exercising these rights while people are trying to make their livings." On March 13, the Mayor's Office issued an "Executive Order Regarding the Enforcement of Essential Services," defining the following as "essential": "food retailing and distribution; grocery stores; drug stores; health care, pharmaceutical, and related services; travel accommodations, including hotels, airlines, public transit, and taxis; the health care, legal, and counseling professions; funeral and cremation services; office of the City Clerk; and public administration offices of the City of New York." On March 14, New York City went further by enacting a public health, and a public safety, quarantine. The order specifically (quoted from the New York Times) states: "Police will enforce those laws more stringently, and be on the lookout for violations
