What's new in Fifa 22:

- New Motion Capture Technology FIFA 22 introduces “HyperMotion Technology,” which captures the nuances of movement in real-life action. Improved physics and animations are put to work in career mode to make you feel like a footballing superhero in footy matches. It’s now even easier to manipulate the game during scoring moments with speed, and control the ball with true Zonzo precision.
- New Player Ratings Every player’s on-the-ball and off-the-ball actions are rated on the following four factors to give you more accurate and realistic career statistics: Quality, Position, Style and Intensity. The ratings are displayed alongside the AI behaviour based on these four categories. Also included are new Career Save Ratings. Check the improved defensive and attacking context sensitivity, and adjustable AI aggressiveness, depending on how you’re playing or what tactics you’re using. With a new “next action prediction” system, it’s easier to play your best on any pitch, whether you’re managing an entire club or only one position.
- New Tactical Defending Tactical Defending now occurs regardless of which tactics are used, allowing players to define their strengths and defend more appropriately. Tactics such as 1-2-4, 3-5-2, or 4-1-2-3-2 are now activated by specific situations on the pitch. You are able to prioritise the tactical layer - one button to control the game as you see fit.
- New Player Predictions FIFA 22 introduces “Best,” “Average” and “Worst” stat lines. Optimising your player stat line will now be easier. The new “Named” stat line tells you what players have been called before, which is useful when you run down a list of names.
