Mozilla Foundation hires new executive director; leaves once Mike Shaver is in - jonathanjaeger ===== fulafel Some more context about Mozilla's past: po... Shaver has an interesting background, so I guess we'll have to wait and see if he can fix Mozilla's hard problems. It's also a bit amusing that there are at least 2 prominent European Googlers in this role, with one of them (Weitz) previously leading a large public company. ----- owenmarshall > Mozilla's President/CEO, Mitchell Baker, said in a statement, "I want to > thank Mike for his many years of outstanding service to Mozilla and its > mission of being an open-source, community-based nonprofit. I am happy to > say that I will continue the Mozilla Foundation's work in a new capacity," Oh boy. ----- mike-cardwell
