We've compiled the best tips from our site and from our customers, along with some expert advice to help you deal with rats. Where are they from? Rats are generally from the Sub-Saharan African region, although they've made their way into other parts of the world. They're usually pests in Europe and Australia. Do they carry diseases? You've probably heard that rats carry a number of diseases, including the nasty bubonic plague. While these stories may be exaggerated, there's no denying that they do carry germs and could transfer them to people. How can I get rid of them? Homeowners have a few options to battle rats. First, there's the hectoring approach. This involves yelling and stomping around outside, all in an effort to scare them away. This also includes setting up barriers, such as chicken wire or tires. If you're more organized, you'll want to build a trap. Depending on the size of your property, you can use several different types of traps. At the end of this article, we go through some tips that can help you build a rat-proof home. What should I do if they get into the house? If your rats have somehow gotten into your home, then you'll want to take immediate measures to prevent the spread of diseases. Get rid of all the food and garbage that they've brought into the home, and throw 1cdb36666d
