The most important thing to do if you have an "I" on your driving license is to complete a Driver Improvement Course. If you complete a D.I.C. course, you're allowed to drive in France for two years from the date of your certificate. If you don't pass the D.I.C. course, you must do another one. If you still fail, you must take a refresher course in order to get your licence back. Is it difficult to pass the tests in France? It's not difficult to pass the test, but the tests are very tough because there are no particular patterns for you to follow. You have to be very attentive in order to pass the test. If you fail to pass the tests in France, and you lose your licence there, you can get it reinstated in your home country. You must write to the French Embassy in your home country and ask for a consular intervention. As a result, you'll be given a temporary driving licence in the format of a passport, with the same number of points that you have on your licence. So you don't need to be worried about losing your licence in France. Have a great drive! Nasal mucosal nasal spray: a therapeutic option in acute rhinosinusitis.
