WASHINGTON (Reuters) - President Donald Trump on Thursday imposed a payroll tax cut on a broad range of workers, a move aimed at combating the damage the trade war is inflicting on U.S. companies. Slideshow ( 3 images ) The White House said the payroll tax cuts would take effect on Jan. 1 for a two-year period, and all workers earning less than $100,000 per year would see a 5 percent cut in their Social Security and Medicare taxes. It was the third time in a month the administration had taken steps to limit the economic damage from the standoff with China and a growing list of countries that target American companies with tariffs. Trump's latest round of trade tariffs takes effect on Friday, prompting retaliatory measures from Beijing and other countries. Later on Thursday, in a sign of how the moves are reverberating around the globe, German carmakers announced a global trade deal with U.S. rivals including the likes of General Motors Co GM.N and Fiat Chrysler Automobiles FCHA.MI that resulted in a breakthrough for trans-Atlantic auto trade. The sweeping accord, known as the United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement, will limit production of trucks and cars under the North American Free Trade Agreement, and came a week after the United States and Mexico agreed to a new North American Free Trade Agreement. Trump, who has made his aggressive trade policies a centerpiece of his presidency, has set a Jan. 1 deadline to raise tariffs on all goods imported from China to 25 percent from 10 percent to punish the country for its trade practices. The United States and China on Thursday agreed to hold off on further tariff hikes for 90 days as they work toward a long-promised trade deal. A partial deal was signed on Dec. 1 in Miami that will raise Chinese purchases of U.S. farm goods by $40 billion over two years. But Trump wants China to make much more significant changes before the U.S. administration will approve a sweeping trade agreement to replace the existing deal. "I think they're trying to get us to accept something in principle just so that when the tariffs start they can say, 'Hey, we're finally doing something,'" said Anthony Scarselli, CEO of investment firm ARI Capital Management LLC in New York. A senior White House official said that despite recent progress, the United States and China have very different views about how Download this episode The world is a funny place. It's both a better and a worse place. Sometimes, it gets a little bit dark. But, I think we can all agree that there's generally a brightness on the horizon. Brightness and hope. Hope that the darkness doesn't outweigh us and, I hope you don't want too much from me. That's all I ask. I just hope you know that I'm right there with you. Trying to steer you toward the light. You're stronger than you know. I'm not sure about that. There's been a lot of darkness lately. Yes. It's not black. No, it's not. It's not. It's not dark. It's not. It's not. It's not. Bright. Let's get there together. You know the light is brighter now. I do. And the darkness fades. Yeah. Keep going. We're fine. I'll help you hold up your end. I know you will. I'm strong, like a lot of other things. I know that. You're fine. I'm here for you. I know that. To where? You know. To where? Well, to keep you going. You're going to do just fine. I know you will. I know you will. You're going to be fine. You know that. You'll be fine./** Copyright (c) 2011-2020, Peter Abeles.
