Q: How to add a UIActivityIndicatorView to the text view of UITableView? I have a UITableView which contains text and an image. I want to add a UIActivityIndicator to the image view. I googled and checked the internet but couldn't get the right answer. A: Are you looking to add the activity indicator to the row's detail view? UIImageView *imgView = [[[UIImageView alloc] initWithImage:[UIImage imageNamed:@"image.png"]] autorelease]; UIImageView *indicator = [[[UIImageView alloc] initWithActivityIndicatorStyle:UIActivityIndicatorViewStyleWhiteLarge] autorelease]; indicator.userInteractionEnabled = NO; [self.imgTableView addSubview:imgView]; [self.imgTableView addSubview:indicator]; indicator.frame = CGRectMake(20, 20, 100, 100); [imgView addSubview:indicator]; [indicator startAnimating]; [imgView startAnimating]; This will display the activity indicator in the row's detail view. If you want the activity indicator to be over the image, then the above code should be modified as follows: UIImageView *imgView = [[[UIImageView alloc] initWithImage:[UIImage imageNamed:@"image.png"]] autorelease]; indicator.userInteractionEnabled = NO; CGRect frame = [self.imgView.superview convertRect:self.imgView.frame fromView:self.imgTableView]; [self.imgTableView addSubview:imgView]; [self.imgTableView addSubview:indicator]; indicator.frame = CGRectMake(20, frame.origin.y + 20, 100, 100); [imgView addSubview:indicator]; [indicator startAnimating]; [imgView startAnimating]; I've included the above code to demonstrate how you might be able to place the activity indicator over the image. A: In your cellForRowAtIndexPath, add the following: UIImageView *thumbnail =

At the peak of the economic recession, we only needed to rethink our investment portfolios and stop funding and supporting carbon polluting energy companies. At any time, we only needed to stop promoting fossil fuel use and make investment decisions based on principles of a clean energy economy, and even oppose pro-fossil fuel policies. And we never needed to be willing to pay more for oil. This week, we only needed to not act like climate scientists. Help Grist raise $20,000 by 9/30.
