There are two variants of this anomaly: the first is a right coronary artery arising from the right sinus of Valsalva and the second is

Q: Django CreateView unable to display default template with defined url I have a question about Django's CreateView. I have a below simple example in which I have a single field that I assign as Read Only, something like this: class MyModelCreateView(SuccessMessageMixin, CreateView): model = MyModel fields = ['value'] form_class = MyForm template_name = 'polls/form.html' The template is also placed in the same app and marked as default, so the url of this view is defined in polls/urls.py as below:

path('form/', views.MyModelCreateView.as_view(
name='form')),

When I run the app and go to polls/form/, I am getting a Django error 404, due to the fact that Django is trying to render a template for polls/form.html instead of the form. As I understand, the template for this view is placed in the same app. How can I have Django use the specified template for my view? Thanks

class MyModelCreateView(SuccessMessageMixin, CreateView): model = MyModel
    fields = ['value']
    form_class = MyForm
    template_name = 'polls/form.html'
    success_message = 'your success message'
in urls.py ... path('form/',
views.MyModelCreateView.as_view(),
name='form'), ...
