.Development of several giant extra-abdominal myoma within a short period. A young woman with giant myoma of about 2300 g that was found at 20 weeks of gestation was reported. The patient is a 19-year-old primigravida of G2P1. The patient had retained products of conception (RPC) and received two episodes of spontaneous abortion as well as treated for irregular uterine bleeding. She delivered at 35 weeks of gestation. She did not receive the common treatment for myoma. The myoma with a volume of at least 1200 cm<sup>3</sup> increased in size from an initial mass of about 1 kg at 20 weeks' gestation. Routine sonography showed the presence of a huge myoma in the abdomen. A test for pregnancy was positive, and an ultrasound-guided aspiration of the cystic mass was performed. At the initial diagnosis of RPC, the authors found that the myoma at 20 weeks' gestation could be a giant myoma. The authors conclude that ultrasound is the most important tool for diagnosis, and pregnancy is another important factor of the development of giant myoma.
