The Adobe online learning platform PhotoshopClassroom.com also offers a wealth of free tutorials to help teach Photoshop skills. Affinity Designer Affinity Designer is the visually oriented image manipulation program from the Gannett company that also produces the newspaper and magazine publication USA TODAY. Affinity Designer is used by folks who have some design skills but don't need all the bells and whistles of Photoshop, but are interested in a high-end application for their design needs. It's designed for designers who have worked with a lot of different software packages. With the advent of Internet usage and web design, more and more professional designers are now using Affinity Designer. This software enables them to work with web designs and ultimately the web by letting them use both graphics and animation. Affinity Designer includes a feature called Draw, where you can use the stylus and stylus pointer to create shapes, lines, and paths, and then use the tool menus to adjust the selected path to a line, polygon, or bezier curve. Affinity Designer includes the ability to add a bit of interactivity to your graphics by adding hotspots. Figure 5-2 shows a page with some of the graphics that have been created using Affinity Designer. Figure 5-2: Graphics created using Affinity Designer. App Details: Affinity Photo Version: 6.1.0.297 Size: 1.32 MB App Uptime: 90 days App Developer: Gannett Website: `www.affinity.com` Affinity Photo has a similar user interface to Photoshop, where you use a series of menus to navigate through to areas you want to manipulate or customize your image. You also have access to similar tools such as the eraser, the brush, the blur tools, the Eraser tool, and the paint bucket. Figure 5-3 shows a screen shot of the program. The interface used for this book is a bit more in-depth and allows you to change and modify much of the text, graphics, and illustration elements. Figure 5-3: Image manipulation in Affinity Photo Apps have different uses, and many designers feel that working with graphics software like Photoshop and Affinity Photo allows them to create much faster because they know what they're doing in the software and have the confidence of knowing that they aren't making a mistake. An Englewood man has been arrested and charged with murder in the death of a woman he is accused of killing and dumping in a closet after she threatened to tell police he had raped her, police say. Chester Johnson, 47, has been charged with murder in the 1:30 p.m. Friday death of 47-year-old Tanisha Martin, and possession of a weapon during a felony, according to an arrest report filed in Cook County Circuit Court. Police found Martin dead in a closet at a home in the 6200 block of South Englewood Avenue after a woman called police at 9:30 a.m. to report that she had spotted a body in a closet and a man who resembled Martin's boyfriend was in the home, according to the report. Martin's body was found in the closet in the same home on Friday, and police said she died of multiple stab wounds, the report said. Johnson was arrested and charged with Martin's murder after he called police and confessed to his involvement and his possession of the weapon, a knife, police said. He is being held without bail at the Cook County Jail, police said. A man who did not want to be identified was next door watching television when he saw Martin's body in the closet. "He could see she had a part where she had not been mummified as much as she had in the beginning, and then it was another part where she was mummified," said the man who said he was a

The Yale School of Public Health's Center for Primary Care and Outcomes Research (CPCOR) has been awarded a multi-year, unfunded Competitive Renewal Grant for an innovative program of research investigating the long-term effects of population-based asthma interventions on children with asthma. The program is called the Asthma Public Health Network (APHN) which will extend beyond the current project, which is funded for two years only, to include a full six-year program of projects across a number of different communities. The NACOS Data Extractor is an easy-to-use, web-based data extractor designed to streamline data collection and data aggregation. The extractor was previously used to collect and compute disease-specific, practice-based patient-level measures during the National Ambulatory Medical Care Surveys (NAMCS) and National Hospital Ambulatory Medical Care Surveys (NHAMCS). The NACOS Data Extractor is being used in an effort to collect and compute a wide array of data during the upcoming NAMCS and NHAMCS surveys. Luis Garcia, the department's spokesman, said that 26-year-old Candace Fiske was found safe in New York City. The statement did not say whether Fiske had been found in New York or if she had been arrested. Fiske was last seen April 20 in the Richmond District of San Francisco, according to the San Francisco Police Department. She told her roommate she was going to work at a casino in Reno, Nevada, to support her gambling habit and to take medication for her mental condition. Fiske was taking medication for schizophrenia, and her roommate was aware of her mental health status, Garcia said. "There is nothing further that can be said about the investigation at this time," Garcia said in a statement. Two people attempted to locate Fiske, he said. They both knew of her mental health issues, and both have since been cleared by the police department. Fiske's roommate told authorities that
