Exploring the World of Magic: The Gathering is getting its second supplement. The Planeswalker's Almanac, and the M-Files are the first to debut. The Planeswalker's Almanac is a free, 144-page supplement that will introduce new card sets and mechanics to Magic players. Almanac contains two "twofer" format cards: a full-color illustration and a short description of every card in the set. Additionally, every card in the set has a visual link to a Wikisource page where players can download the card in color. The cards will be free for all existing players and will go on sale on April 7 at PTKCon, the convention for the game's creators. Three new mechanics will also be covered in the set, including ongoing tribute, a sequence of abilities that affect a player's character; stackable counters, introduced in 2006's Conspiracy; and tap symbol. Six sets will be covered in the almanac, including Spheres, Avacyn Restored, Battle for Zendikar, Aether Revolt, Shadows over Innistrad, and Kaladesh. The M-Files are a set of cards that provide fun and utility for an exclusive Magic event, called the 2019 Magic Online Easter Egg Hunt. The event offers players the opportunity to collect M-Files for their collection. The first set of M-Files went on sale at 10 a.m. PT on March 12, and they will be distributed in waves throughout the day, and throughout April, to the more than 500,000 subscribers of Magic Online. The submission deadline for entries to the event is April 10 at 11:59 a.m. PT. For more information and to access the submission form, visit magiethegathering.com/ehh-2019.
