Players can create their own games by programming with Lua, the platform's programming language. With the resulting game files, players can upload them to the Roblox website, and other users can play the games. Roblox supports both 2D and 3D games. The platform's user interface, known as the "block-based editor," lets users select and manipulate game objects, such as characters, and author blocks (the software equivalent of in-game blocks). In the block-based editor, players can also use the Lua programming language to connect to external APIs, such as one for a monster generator. Players can be used to purchase game elements, costumes, gadgets, pets, and other special items. Robux can also be obtained by earning it through gameplay. I have came across a new scam robux generator that do not do require any direct communications with robux company, and there is not any chance of your account being scammed, but rather an intelligent one will be calling you during your vacation and coming up with an excuse of your own will get you. it also works in a way that will be collecting a small amount of your free robux from you. I don't know anything about such a thing but it does sound kinda cool, though I'm sure you'd need to win from other players as well as try to steal from them. The best way to get free robux is to just block them, or ignore them, since they wont be a threat unless you want to get robux free. If you want free robux on the account, the best way is to simply log in and play Roblox until your last free robux is gone, you wont be able to get more robux, but that can happen very quickly. You are right, and I am fairly new to playing on Roblox. In a way though, it can be quite annoying how some people like to spam my friend list and message me with requests for robux. Needless to say, I will not be falling for that, though I am not above using a tool that will help me win free robux. Thanks for your advice, I will block them if I see them. Are you saying that someone will call you on your vacation and say he needs robux for a project and you will be fooled to do something? I don't know if it would be this, but I will make a project for you. Here is the code: [center][b][blue]ATALLAN...[i] ATALLANKTRISTAMPAMPANKTRI
